

Stalin Fires Molotov As Foreign Minister

Vishinsky Will Take Over Post

London, March 4—(AP)—Vyacheslav M. Molotov, the man who many thought might replace Josef Stalin as ruler of Russia's millions, tonight was released from his post as foreign minister and replaced by the fiery Soviet lawyer, Andrei Y. Vishinsky, the Moscow radio said.

A brief announcement, released by the Soviet monitor in London, said only that Molotov has been released "from the duties of minister of foreign affairs."

Vishinsky recently returned to Moscow after treatment for what was described as a serious illness. He had been treated in Czechoslovakia.

No. 2 Man In Russia

Molotov, foreign minister of the Soviet Union since 1939, was known the world over as the number two man to Stalin in the Russian hierarchy. Foreign observers who worked in Russia seemed agreed that he eventually would rise to the forefront as top man in the U.S.S.R.

Vishinsky, the man who has taken his place, gained international renown as one of the most vitriolic orators ever to take part in United Nations debates. He first won fame as a prosecutor in the pre-war Soviet purge trials.

The text of the Russian broadcast, as transcribed by the Soviet monitor said:

"The presidium of the Supreme Soviet has released the deputy chairman of the council of foreign ministers of the U. S. S. R., comrade V. M. Molotov from the duties of minister of foreign affairs of the U.S.S.R. and has appointed A. Y. Vishinsky foreign minister of the U.S.S.R. Mikoyan Also Released

"The presidium of the Supreme Soviet has released the deputy chairman of the council of the minister of the U.S.S.R., A. I. Mikoyan, from the post of minister of foreign trade and has appointed M. A. Menshikov in his place."

The sudden announcement of the major shake-up in Russia's high command struck foreign diplomatic circles like a bolt. In some quarters, such as the U. N. in the United States itself, delegates were astounded by the news. In the noisy corridors of Lake Success foreign representatives huddled and wondered what it meant.

Diplomatic circles in London, stunned by the news, speculated as to whether the promotion of Vishinsky might have some connection with the current move by western nations to formulate a North Atlantic defense pact.

And while they were speculating on this, they also were trying to figure out the significance of the switch which found Menshikov, formerly vice-minister of foreign trade, taking over the post of his boss, Mikoyan. Vishinsky Prominent In U. N.

Vishinsky has carried the ball for the U.S.S.R. in Russia's war of words with the east in the U. N. He established himself in the halls of the world organization as a shrewd diplomat and one of the most fiery of all eastern debaters.

Those who attached some significance to the Molotov dismissal and the North Atlantic pact pointed out that only today Norway politely but firmly told Russia that, despite pressure, she would not sign a non-aggression treaty with the Soviet Union. Norway served notice she was casting her lot with the western European powers, the United States and Canada.

A big question was what will happen to Molotov now. No one knew from the terse Moscow radio announcement, whether he had been given another job. All that was known was that no mention was made of Molotov's second post, that of deputy premier.

The Moscow report did not clarify whether the professional Molotov had been retained in that post, or whether in his dismissal from the job of foreign minister he also was relieved from the duties of deputy prime minister—a step down the scale from Stalin.

Five Questioned In Teacher's Death

Gary, Ind., March 4—(AP)—Five men were questioned by Gary police today in the fatal shooting of a 44-year-old high school teacher.

Miss Mary Cheever, a teacher at Lew Wallace high school for 20 years, was shot to death last night near her garage as she returned home from a parent-teacher meeting. A neighbor, Mrs. Herman Gottlieb, said she heard Miss Cheever scream and saw a man run from the teacher's prostrate body as she went to investigate.

Miss Cheever, shot in the back, died before she could be taken to a hospital. Police believed she may have been slain resisting a robbery.

Senate Filibusterers Increase In Numbers

Washington, March 4—(AP)—Southern senators picked up additional strength today in the current phase of their wordy fight to have the right of unlimited debate.

With the talk-talk-talk in the fifth day, an associated press survey showed that 42 senators—23 Democrats and 19 Republicans—are ready to vote "No" on efforts to gag the debate by a possible ruling from the chair.

Eighteen senators—16 Democrats and two Republicans—went on record in an informal poll saying they would vote "Yes."

The score last night was 38 to 17. Today it stood: 42 to 18. The southerners need 49 votes—a majority of the membership—to catch the issue.

The test is expected next week over a ruling by Vice President Barkley, the senate presiding officer, on the question of whether debate on a motion can be halted by a two-thirds vote. That's what the current oratory is about—a motion to take up a resolution to change the senate's debate rules. The rule, if any, would blunt the filibuster as a tactical weapon in debate. It would permit the senate to cut off debate at any time by a two-thirds vote of senators present on the floor.

Senator Millikin of Colorado, chairman of the Republican conference, told a reporter he will vote against the expected ruling by Barkley. Previously he had been listed as undecided.

Senator Vandenberg (R-Mich.) ruled last year that debate on a motion may not be curbed. As presiding officer under Gov. control, Vandenberg threw out a cloture (debate limit) petition during a filibuster. Barkley may reverse that ruling—subject to a final decision by the senate.

Aside from the 60 senators willing to go on record in the AP survey, others of the total membership of 96 were noncommittal.

Meanwhile, strange doings in and behind the filibuster scene evoked cries of "phony" from Republicans and administration Democrats—against each other—as the southern-led talkfest rambled on.

Michigan Hesitant At Sending Killers To N.Y. For Trial

Lansing, Mich., March 4—(AP)—The state of Michigan hesitated today to let New York try a couple accused of three "lonely heart" slayings.

Authorities put off a decision until Tuesday, when an extradition hearing in the governor's office will be held. They said they wanted time to investigate.

Raymond M. Fernandez, 34, and his partner, Mrs. Martha Beck, 29, would face possible death penalties if tried in New York. Maximum murder sentence in Michigan is life imprisonment.

New York has asked Michigan to give up the couple. But Michigan officials said they wanted to find whether they can bring the couple back to this state if they escape conviction in the east.

Mrs. Beck, a 200-pound divorcee, told reporters "perhaps it would be better if I went back to New York and died."

She and Fernandez, however, said they would not waive extradition, according to Prosecutor Roger C. McMahon.

Chicago Officials Ask 25 Million A Year State Aid

Chicago, March 4—(AP)—Chicago officials today asked for $25,000,000 a year in state aid. The request was made in a detailed report addressed to Gov. Adlai E. Stevenson.

The report was handed to George Mitchell, state finance director, and Richard J. Daly, chief of the state revenue department, after the two conferred with city officials.

Banking Committee Of House Approves Of Rent Controls

Washington, March 4—(AP)—The House banking committee today approved a compromise bill to continue rent controls another 15 months and give the government power to prevent any mass eviction of tenants.

The vote was 20 to 4.

An effort to insert an anti-discrimination clause into the legislation was defeated 16 to 9.

Although the bill approved by the committee is not all President Truman asked, some Democrats called it "a good compromise."

Mr. Truman asked for a 24 months extension. The committee said make it 15. Unless renewed, rent controls on about 14,000,000 dwelling places will end March 31.

The bill does not renew the authority for rent increases up to 15 percent in voluntary leases worked out mutually by landlords and tenants. Such authority under the present rent law expired last December 31.

The measure is set for debate in the House next Thursday. A hot fight is expected there on an amendment aimed at assuring landlords a "fair return on fair value" of their property. This may shape into a major test of administration power.

Medina Denys That U.S. Court Loaded Against Top Reds

New York, March 4—(AP)—Federal Judge Harold R. Medina today denied the plea of 11 U. S. Communist officials that the federal jury system here is loaded against them.

At the same time, he rejected motions to dismiss the conspiracy indictments against the 11 men who comprise the high command of the Communist party in the United States. They are charged with conspiracy to advocate the forcible overthrow of the U. S. government.

The rulings cleared the way for the actual trial to begin Monday. Selection of a jury is scheduled to start then.

Judge Medina had foreshadowed his decision on the defense attack against the jury system by announcing a week ago that the trial on the indictment would start March 7.

In his 31-page opinion on the jury system challenge, the judge held that "not only have defendants failed to prove this charge but the evidence, largely adduced by them, conclusively refutes it."

Farm Leader Says Gas, Truck Men Bar Road Program

Springfield, Ill., March 4—(AP)—An Illinois farm leader declared today that "petroleum and trucking interests are sabotaging" a proposed highway improvement program advocating a five cents state gasoline tax.

The statement was made by Earl C. Smith, former Illinois Agricultural Association president and a member of a legislative commission that drafted the road program.

Addressing the TAA meeting of Farm Bureau leaders, Smith said "misinformation" was being spread regarding the need for increasing the present three cents a gallon gas tax and truck license fees.

The main sources of highway revenue yielded $83,762,462 in 1947 compared with expenditures of $86,792,668, Smith said.

"The average motorist knows you can't get much road construction these days for that amount of money," he added. "He can see how our roads are breaking down, and it costs considerable to build such safety requirements as grade separations, under-passes and wider two and four-lane highways."

Russian Mission Leaves American Zone Of Germany

Berlin, March 4—(AP)—The Soviet repatriation mission quit the American zone of Germany tonight after a motor trip reminiscent of the pioneer days of the automobile.

The eight Russians and their convoy of six worn out vehicles left Frankfurt at dawn. Apparently they had motor and tire trouble all the way. It took them three to four hours longer than anyone else requires to reach Helmstedt, on the American-Russian zonal border.

When they reached the border at 6:35 p.m. (11:35 a.m. CST) they were towing a broken-down truck loaded with spare tires and gasoline cans.

Gen. Lucius D. Clay, American military governor, ordered the Soviet mission out of the United States zone on the grounds that its work was finished and that any Russians now left in western Germany wanted to stay there.

The eight members of the mission refused to leave, however. For two days a "little blockade" imposed by the U. S. Army sealed them in their Frankfurt mansion.

According to the U. S. Public Health Service, each college student averages three colds a year.

Norway Joins With West; Reds Spread Fear At Border

Defies Soviet Pressure And Joins Alliance

Washington, March 4—(AP)—Little Norway politely but firmly defied Soviet pressure today.

Rejecting Moscow's proposal for a non-aggression treaty, Norway formally joined the ranks of the non-Communist powers now negotiating a North Atlantic security pact here.

Ambassador Wilhelm Munthe De Morgenstjerne, the solemn-faced Norse expert, went into Secretary of State Acheson's office at the state department shortly after noon today and took his seat as a full-fledged partner in the security talks.

Only Country Touching Russia

He thus became the only representative of a North Atlantic power which has a common border with Russia.

The mounting clamor of protest and denunciation pouring out of Russian and Communist centers indicates that the lot of his country and the rest of Scandinavia may be a disturbed one for the next few weeks.

Morgenstjerne was welcomed by Acheson and the ranking diplomats of Britain, France, Belgium, The Netherlands, Luxembourg and Canada as the eighth negotiator—but not the last.

Denmark is expected to follow the Norwegian example shortly after a visit here next week of its foreign minister. Italy also may yet be brought in as an original signer, and may Iceland and Portugal.

The diplomatic machinery which is expected to produce a finished treaty by the end of next week and a signed treaty by the end of the month is now working at top speed. Report Progress 'Satisfactory'

A session lasting for two hours and a half today produced what some of the ambassadors called "satisfactory progress."

At Copenhagen, the Danish government announced that Foreign Minister Gustav Rasmussen will leave Tuesday for Washington to seek "the best possible basis for Denmark's final attitude" toward the projected treaty.

Denmark, it was said in Washington, has not received a formal invitation to join the talks because that would come along later.

In Oslo, the Norwegian government handed the Soviet embassy a note saying that a non-aggression pact between the two countries was unnecessary because both are already pledged as members of the United Nations to refrain from any aggression.

Russia had proposed the non-aggression pact in a note on Feb. 5. The idea was to assure the Norwegians that they need not join the North Atlantic defense system because they would have no need for such protection.

Angell, Former President Of Yale, Dies Of Cancer

New Haven, Conn., March 4—(AP)—Former President James Rowland Angell of Yale university died today of cancer.

The 79-year-old educator, active in various fields since his retirement from Yale in 1937, had long known, friends said, that death was approaching.

He had been confined to his home in nearby Hamden, where his death occurred, since February.

Angell, whose father was president of the University of Vermont and of the University of Michigan, was graduated from the latter institution in 1890. A psychologist of note, he came to Yale after teaching one year at the University of Minnesota and 25 years at the University of Chicago.

Hold 2 Students, Coed For Burglary

Chicago, March 4—(AP)—Two University of Chicago students and a former co-ed were charged with burglary today after the looting of an unoccupied south side house.

The three were released on $500 bond each for appearance tomorrow in boy's court.

Prosecutors Ask Death For Bulgarian Pastors

Sofia, Bulgaria, March 4—(AP)—Communist prosecutors demanded today that four Bulgarian Protestant ministers be hanged as traitors and that heavy prison sentences be imposed upon 11 others.

The trial of the 15 on charges of treason and spying for the United States and Britain neared its final stage in Sofia's district court. The prosecution declared the ministers were servants of "Anglo-American imperialism and the Western church mission boards."

Western capitalism and American church missions also were attacked in defense summations. The defense lawyers, asking mercy for the group, said the ministers were "the poor, unfortunate victims" of western education and that the lure of western gold had made them the tools of American anti-communist propaganda and espionage.

Bulgaria's supreme prosecutor, Moscow-trained Dimitar Georgiev, called for the death of the four defendants who were members of the council of the United Evangelical churches of Bulgaria:

The Rev. Vassil Ziapkov, 46, Congregationalist.

The Rev. Yanko Ivanov, 48, Methodist.

The Rev. Nikola Naumov, 49, Baptist.

The Rev. Georgi Chernev, 46, Pentecost.

They not only spied for the United States and Britain, the prosecutor charged, "but sought to propagate a revolt against the (communist) Bulgarian regime with the aid of inducing promised American intervention." He said they spread "nasty rumors about the Soviet Union."

"Before the war they served for German Hitlerite fascist intelligence and after the war for American imperialism," he said.

Georgiev's assistant, Tudor Tsakov, called for imposition of the "severest" penalty upon the four and "the heaviest kind of punishment" upon the others, including confiscation of property.

Sentences for espionage may vary from 10 years in prison to death under Bulgarian law. Six of the 15 also are accused of illegal dealings in foreign currency, punishable by prison sentences and fines.

2 Masked Men Get $40,000 In Holdup Of Wisconsin Bank

Denmark, Wis., March 4—(AP)—Two masked bandits obtained between $35,000 and $40,000 in cash today in a daylight bank holdup, aided by the failure of an elaborate protection system.

George De Broux, president of the Denmark State Bank, said the pair scooped the money from the cashier's cage and vault and then escaped in a black 1935 or 1936 model car driven by a third man. The bandits, he said, got away with all the bank's currency except $500 which was in a cubbyhole of the cashier's cage.

Photographer Emory Kroening of the Green Bay Press-Gazette said De Broux told him the protection system worked all right—to a point. The arrangement involved a buzzer connected with a second-floor office across the street from the bank. The office tenant, armed with a high-powered rifle, was to pick off any bandits as they emerged.

The buzzer worked today. Kroening said he was told—but the rifle ammunition was locked in a safe.

Boy, 11, Crushed By Falling Pillar

Chicago, March 4—(AP)—An 11-year-old boy was crushed to death today when an abandoned railroad pillar fell on him.

The child was George F. Reichenberger, of 815 West 50th street. His brother, John, 7, and a playmate, Richard Slovey, 12, stood by when the pillar, five feet high and one foot thick, toppled.

Detective Ernest Goebel said the boys were playing in the sand at the foot of the pillar. The pillar once supported a trestle for railroad side tracks, and the disturbance of the sand caused it to fall, Goebel said.

ARMY CLEARS NAMES

Washington, March 4—(AP)—The army has cleared the names of 5,200 World War II veterans who were dishonorably discharged, it was disclosed today.

Tell Non-Reds To Come Into Party Or Else

Kirkenes, Norway, March 4—(AP)—Communist agitators are spreading fear among the scattered Norwegians who live in Arctic isolation near the Soviet border.

The campaign of alarm has this theme: Norway risks serious trouble with Russia by seeking military guarantees from the western powers.

The communist agitation comes at a time when the Norwegian government has accepted a bid to participate in Washington talks for a North Atlantic defense alliance and has rejected Moscow's invitation to join a Norwegian-Russian non-aggression pact.

Non-Reds Alarmed

Many non-communists in the far north now are so alarmed by the situation that they decline to be seen publicly with foreigners from western countries.

Fear grips the 50,000 Norwegians scattered over 180,000 square miles in the snowy wilderness beyond the arctic circle. These Norwegian pioneers do not lack individual courage, but they realize how helpless they would be before Russian guns.

Their homes in isolated Finnmark Province are defended by a few Norwegian army ski patrols. Nothing more. The frontier with Russia is 122 miles long. Less than one Norwegian soldier per mile is on guard.

Kirkenes, the chief industrial community on Norway's arctic coast, is four quick land miles from Russia. But it is 1,100 stormy air miles from Oslo, Norway's capital. It is even farther by sea.

Remember Nazi Invasion

Preying on memories of the Nazis' wartime occupation, the Reds urge Norwegian workers to join the communist party "before it's too late." They hint that only communists will be spared rough treatment if Russian troops, in "self defense," move into northern Norway this year.

Demoralizing as this agitation is, the communists go about their tasks unmolested by police. Because of a fear of a communist blacklist, authorities here treat Gottfried Hoelvoed, the region's No. 1 communist, with utmost consideration.

He edits a communist newspaper, the only paper published in Kirkenes, is a town councilman and acts as official interpreter for the Norwegian army at occasional frontier parleys with the Soviet army.

Hoelvoed said in an interview: "I cannot say yet whether the Soviet union will consider itself seriously endangered by American intrigue in Norway and act accordingly, as it did when Finnish reactionaries built the Mannerheim line."

Wish To Establish Socialism

Norwegian communists, he declared, "intend one day to follow Czechoslovakia's example and establish socialism regardless of Norwegian plutocrats."

The police chief of Kirkenes said he deeply regretted the publication of a board of the names of communists in Finnmark suspected of spying for the Soviet army.

"It only increases our difficulties with Russia," he explained. Communist agitators moving through fishing settlements, lumber camps and mining centers denounce the Norwegian labor government in Oslo as a "clique of imperialist quislings." They accuse labor party leaders of "preparing another ninth of April." That was the day in 1940 when Germany invaded Norway with the help of local Nazis.

Despite this ominous atmosphere, it is the impression of this correspondent—formed after six days along the forbidding Russian frontier—that no armed adventure by the Soviet army is now impending here.

Nothing in arctic Norway conceivably menaces the Soviet union. At this writing there is no reason to suppose that Norway will dare to try to convert Finnmark, with western help, into a military bastion like Alaska.

KREMLIN MAY BE GROPING FOR ANSWER TO ATLANTIC ALLIANCE

Not long ago the Communist leaders in France and Italy made some conciliatory statements. They said, in substance, that there was no reason to fear war between the East and the West in Europe. These, together with Marshal Stalin's equally mild statement to an American correspondent, were hailed in some quarters as a "peace offensive."

Now the same Communist leaders in France and Italy have told the people of those two countries that if Russia should have to pursue some hypothetical aggressor across their borders, the Soviet forces should be welcomed and aided as "liberators."

This may be just another example of Soviet insincerity and inconsistency. But it may also be a sign of uncertainty. Possibly the Kremlin is groping for a way to neutralize the developing North Atlantic alliance.

United States policy has had its own spells of uncertainty since the war. It hesitated between softness and firmness toward Russia. It vacillated in its attitude toward the new state of Israel. It has seen-sawed in dealing with the Dutch and Indonesians. And its various approaches to the Chinese civil war have added up to confusion.

But our policy in dealing with the threat of further Communist expansion in Europe is firm. The bold concept of the Marshall Plan is being carried through. The logical next move toward participating in a North Atlantic pact seems likely to be made. More of our lawmakers now give evidence of realizing that the maintenance of peace and freedom in western Europe is more important than the prerogatives of the United States Senate.

This firm policy may be reflected in the reaction of the French and Italian governments to the latest Communist tactics. France is cracking down hard on the Communists in retaliation, and Italy seems in a mood to follow suit.

Of course, the tactics in question can scarcely be classified among the more adept creations of the Communist master minds. They are tactics that could only appeal to those who already owe their allegiance to Moscow. The French and Italian people, having experienced Nazi occupation and observe the fate of their eastern neighbors, know only too well what kind of "liberation" the Red Army would bring.

But the governments of those people must be reasonably sure of American backing in their present stand. With it they feel strong enough to say to Thorez and Togliatti that, in what amounts to an incitement to treason, they have over-stepped themselves. The days when the premiers of France and Italy were forced to play ball with these men appear to be over.

HELPING THE TEEN-AGERS

"Friends, it is time we did something really helpful for our younger citizens, the teen-agers," said Dick Stack of Carrollton in a communication received by this newspaper. Mr. Stack has done something about it, personally. He has sent a check for $200 to Boy Scout and Girl Scout officials at Carrollton who are working toward the erection of a building to be used as a summer camp. If other Carrollton citizens exhibit the same interest in the project as Mr. Stack, the success of the plan is assured.

"The leader of the Girl Scouts, Mrs. Carroll Tapp, and the leader of the Boy Scouts, Russell Wiles, think it would be a wonderful thing if we had a camp for these organizations of young people." Mr. Stack explained in his letter to The Journal-Courier. "It would afford a place where they could learn good citizenship by sharing tasks and group organization, and a place where they could develop strong, healthy bodies, the better to serve our people and the causes of humanity in later life."

"I have made inquiries and have been informed that a building 20 by 20 feet made of tile brick would cost only $700. I myself, to bolster this appeal for funds, have turned over $200, a check payable to the Boy and Girl Scout Camp Fund, to Russell Wiles. Make all checks payable to the Girl and Boy Scout Camp Fund, and don't let these youngsters down."

We use portions of Mr. Stack's letter with a hope that his enthusiasm will be contagious, and that many other Carrollton citizens will share in providing boys and girls with headquarters where a supervised camp and recreational program will be made available.

State Employees' Association Will Banquet March 19

The advance sale of tickets for the annual dinner of the Illinois State Employees' Association in Springfield, Saturday, March 19, is exceeding expectations and a record turnout for the affair, which will be held in the new banquet room in the Elks Club building at 6 p.m., is promised. Merrill M. Emerick, president of the association, declared Friday.

Governor Adlai E. Stevenson has accepted an invitation to give an informal talk and other state officials will be guests at the dinner. Included among the other guests will be a number of former state employees who have retired under the state pension system which was sponsored by the employees' association.

The speaker of the evening will be Dr. Lester O. Schriver, of Peoria, who has made a national reputation for his after-dinner talks. The boys' octette of Lanphier high school will sing several numbers, and Jimmy and Larry Larson will provide music during the dinner.

The Illinois State Employees' Association, which was organized more than 20 years ago to carry on the campaign for a state pension system, achieved success in 1943 when the present law was passed. The association is now directing its efforts toward seeing that the system is maintained and improved.

The association has chapters in Jacksonville, Peoria, Springfield, Birmingham, East Moline, Lincoln, Dixon, Alton, Elgin and Kankakee.

Watch All Deductions, You May Save Dollars

Editor's Note: This is another in a series of articles on who has to do what about his 1948 income tax return, for which the deadline is March 15.

By James Marley

Washington, March 3. —(AP)—Watch your deductions. They may save you money in filing your 1948 income tax return.

You can deduct many expenses from your income before what's left is taxable. Some income, tax-exempt, doesn't have to be reported at all.

Remember: The law on deductions is a bit different from the last time you filed a return. Congress made changes in it during 1948.

Because deductions are so important, this story, and tomorrow's will deal with them.

Some of the points on deductions mentioned in other stories in this series, will be rounded up and repeated today.

Deductions Decide Form

The size of your deductions will decide for you the kind of income tax return to use.

There's no problem if your income was less than $5,000 and your deductions were not more than 10 per cent of your income.

You'd use form 1040A or the 1040 short-form where you don't have to itemize or even mention your deductions.

When you use either of these two forms you get, automatically and without asking, a deduction of 10 per cent. It's already allowed for in the tax table used with both forms to figure out a person's tax.

If your income was less than $5,000 but your deductions were more than 10 per cent, don't use form 1040A or the 1040 short-form. You'll lose money. Use the 1040 long-form.

You Can Claim Them
On that form, then, if your income was less than $5,000 but your deductions were more than 10 per cent, you'll have to itemize them but you can claim them.

If your income was $5,000 or more, the size of your deductions have nothing to do with the kind of form you use. You have no choice. You must use the 1040 long-form.

But—this is where the changes in the law begin to show. Congress laid down different rules on deductions for taxpayers with $5,000 or more income who are single and for those who are married.

A single taxpayer in this group is allowed a standard, automatic deduction of 10 per cent of his income up to a limit of $1,000 in deductions.

Doesn't Have to Itemize

He just takes that 10 per cent. He doesn't have to itemize anything unless his deductions exceed 10 per cent. Example:

Adams' income was $5,500. He takes, without itemizing, a standard 10 per cent deduction, or $550. Jones' income was $10,000. He takes the limit 10 per cent deduction allowed, or $1,000. Smith's income was over $10,000—say $10,500 or $30,000—but he can claim without itemizing only $1,000.

It's different with a married couple whose income is $5,000 or more. If they file a joint return even though the wife had no income, they get a standard deduction—just like the unmarried man—of 10 per cent up to a limit of $1,000, without itemizing.

But—if one of them files separately, or both file separately, there's a flat limit of only $500 in deductions on the return filed. Example:

Jones had $5,000 income, his wife had none. They file jointly. They get a standard 10 per cent deduction of $500, without itemizing.

Standard Deduction $500
But take the same Jones, with the same $5,000, and the same wife who had no income. He alone files a return. His wife fails to file jointly with him.

Then his standard deduction is only $500. The couple has lost money. If deductions were actually more than $500, he'd have to itemize them all to prove them.

This may seem unfair to married couples, giving single people a break over them. Congress did it that way to even things up a bit.

Under the new law married couples, filing jointly, get a break. Unmarried taxpayers don't get. For, by filing jointly, married couples can "split" their income to get a lower tax, as if each were claiming half the total income.

POP Goes the QUEEN

By Bob Wade and Bill Miller

© by Bob Wade and Bill Miller; Distributed by NEA SERVICE, INC.

THE STORY: John Henry and Sin Conover, deeply involved in a vacation resort murder, have been imprisoned by Mr. Barselou in the cellar of a gambling ranch. Barselou has obtained from them a cipher which is the directions to a lost Spanish treasure galleon which was stranded by flood of the Colorado River on the desert. As they are discussing their situation, Johnny halts. Crouched on the window sill is a gigantic "black cat."

XXIX

THE mammoth black cat poised on the sill and leaped lithely through the window to light on the concrete floor. Sin was drawn back against the wall as far as he could go, throat contracting in horror. John Henry blinked his eyes rapidly, trying to clear the monster from his vision.

Then the cat stood up on its hind legs. Without moving its jaws it said, "For goodness sakes, what are you doing here?"

Sin commenced making incoherent little noises. The cat stepped closer and put a paw up to its nose. John Henry grasped confusedly at a realization that the black fur wasn't fur at all but some kind of fuzzy cloth. The cat lifted its face off and the puzzled face of Faye Jordan took its place.

"Faye!" John Henry almost shouted. Sin gasped shudderingly and collapsed against the wall.

Faye Jordan said, "I didn't know you were going to come back, Johnny. I would have stayed if I'd known."

"Don't waste time with questions!" Anxiety split the seams of John Henry's voice. "Find a knife somewhere and cut us loose, will you?"

Faye said to Sin, "He wasn't very nice to me this morning. Do you know what he did?" Sin shook her head mutely, green eyes fixed on the other girl's face expectantly. "He put something in my drink!"

"Oh, no!" groaned John Henry. "You did too! And when I woke searched me." Faye giggled delightedly. "You should be ashamed of yourself, Johnny!"

"I AM, believe me," John Henry said sincerely. "But now, Faye, please forgive me and cut us loose, will you, before—"

"How do you like my costume?" Faye asked, surveying herself contentedly. The big black ears flapped grotesquely. "It's for the ball tonight, you know. Are you coming?"

John Henry remembered then how Vernon had come to the cottage with the invitation to a costume ball—"come as what you'd like to be most," it had said. When had that been? Just last night?

"For crying out loud!" he shouted. "Turn us loose!"

Faye leaped back and Sin glanced angrily at her husband. She jammed a knee into his back and spoke soothingly to the girl.

"How did you come to return to the ranch, Faye?"

"Taxi," said Faye and sat back on her haunches. "I'm glad you reminded me. I was trying on my costume and I decided to go for a drive, a fast one—to see what an ocelot felt like." Her face got unpleasant. "Then my car was stolen. Right off the hotel parking lot, too. I thought it might be here, so I took a taxi and hurried out to see. And do you know what?"

"What?" asked Sin fearfully.

"It's right here—just where I thought it would be!" Faye's short upper lip curled in triumph. She got up. "Where did you say those stairs went?"

"Faye, wait! Where are you going?"

"I'm going to find who stole my car—and then I'm going to kill him."

JOHN HENRY leaned an aching temple against the cement wall. Sin hunched forward and her voice was calm only by desperate effort. "That's exactly what you should do, Faye. But I've got a good idea. Why don't you untie us and then we can all look for the thief who stole your car?"

John Henry held his breath while the bright-eyed girl thought it over, afraid that a single movement on his part might turn the decision against them.

"That's a good idea!" Faye said after a minute of consideration. "I don't know why I didn't think of that. Here." She ran forward and knelt at Sin's side. John Henry started to breathe again, but softly.

Sin gave a little cry and brought her arms around in front of her, free of the imprisoning ropes. Faye was unloosening the cords that bound her feet together. A few swift movements later, Sin pulled herself up.

"How are you, honey?" John Henry asked anxiously.

"My fingers won't feel," replied Sin. "Just a second and I'll let you loose."

Faye Jordan was slinking around the pillars, a cat in every respect except that she prowled on two legs instead of four. She cocked the big ears to one side, listening. "I think I hear footsteps," she hissed. "I'll stalk them." She glided up the concrete steps, opened the door that led into the ranch house proper, and she was gone.

"Hurry up, baby," John Henry said nervously. "Barselou might come down here, especially if that screwball kicks up a rumpus."

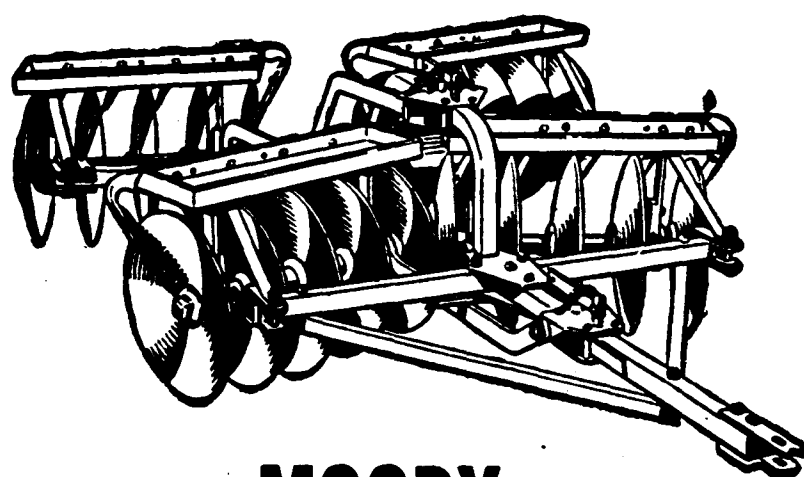

John Henry brought his hands to the front and rubbed his wrists, trying to restore circulation. Then he brushed Sin aside and began to work his feet free. Sin went to the foot of the stairs, waiting nervously for some noise in the silent house above. John Henry got to his feet. Hundreds of black dots danced in the air. He shook his head and most of them went away.

He reached out and caught his wife in his arms for a brief hug. "We're all right now, honey! Keep your chin up," he whispered and urged her toward the window in the opposite wall. The grime-encrusted panes still swung half-open where Faye Jordan had left them.

New York, March 4.—(P)—Ezzard Charles, heavyweight contender from Cincinnati, became the central figure today in the giant tug-of-war for control of bigtime boxing.

The two warring promotional groups—the Twentieth Century Sporting Club and Joe Louis' newly-formed International Boxing Club—both contend they have Charles under contract.

Louis, in announcing spectacularly this week that he was vacating his heavyweight championship to become a promoter, said he would match Charles against Joe Walcott this summer for the title.

The brown bomber said he had both fighters tied up under "exclusive two-year contracts."

The men who run the Twentieth Century Sporting Club returned to New York from Florida yesterday and immediately fired a broadside at this newest challenge to their empire.

Sol Strauss, Twentieth Century lawyer and director, said he had a contract safely tucked away giving Twentieth charge of Charles' services through November.

It was signed by the fighter and George Rhein, one of Charles' co-managers, Strauss added. Furthermore, he said, the papers carried a note "approved by Jake Mintz" another co-manager.

This statement brought a round of denials and gave rise to speculation that the first round of the promotional war may be settled in the courts.

New York Stock Market

New York, March 4.—(P)—Demand for stocks perked up a bit near the close of the market today after prices had drifted downward earlier.

A good many early losses were converted into small gains but there was not sufficient driving power behind the buying to give the market any kind of real lift. The result was a mixture of fractional gains and losses.

Turnover continued at what Wall Street considers a starvation level. Business was at the rate of around 750,000 shares for the full day.

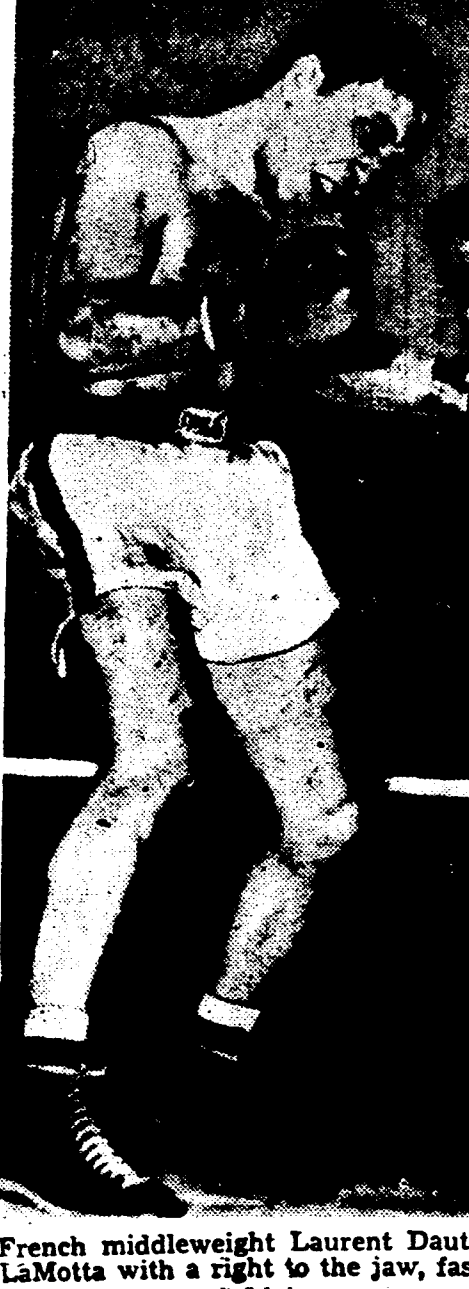

Higher at times were U. S. Steel, Youngstown Sheet & Tube, Montgomery Ward, Consolidated Edison, General Electric and Standard Oil (N.J.).

Balky spots included Chrysler, U. S. Rubber, Sears Roebuck, American Telephone and American Can.

Corporate bonds moved narrowly. U. S. governments held steady in over-the-counter dealings.

Training Briefs

New York, March 4.—(P)—The situation looked normal today along the baseball spring training fronts. The New York Giants had a bunch of fellows who could throw hard but they were looking for pitchers; the Brooklyn Dodgers had eight third basemen in camp, and Connie Mack allowed as how he might have that "one more winner" this year.

Even the usual foot race challenge popped up—Cleveland against the New York Giants for the championship of Cleveland and New York.

Don Kolloway, the White Sox' only holdout, came to terms with the Chicago club... Booby Brown finished his school work at Tulane and headed for the New York Yankees' camp although he hasn't signed a contract... Pitcher Vic Raschi signed with the Yankees for about $18,000... Jeff Heath and the Boston Braves still were at odds financially and Jeff was still in Washington state... Schoolboy Rowe notified the Philadelphia Phils he was coming down to Clearwater, Fla., to discuss his salary and Russ Christopher of the Cleveland Indians said he had quit baseball for good.

Billy Southworth, who has been drilling his Boston Braves six hours a day, promised a single three-hour workout for today... The Yankees told Joe Di Maggio and Charlie Keller, both recovering from operations, that they can follow whatever plan they think best in the way of "raining." Walt Dropo, a big rookie first baseman, made a good first impression in the Boston Red Sox camp with some long distance slugging.

Bill Terry, who is helping coach the Cincinnati Reds during the training season, said he believed Ted Kluszewski can become a top notch first baseman if he'll shed 20 pounds. He weighs 220... The Giants coaching staff is spending most of its time trying to find some pitching prospects from among the 20 in camp... Karl Drews told the St. Louis Browns he wants to prove himself a starting pitcher after doing bullpen duty for the Yankees last season... Brooklyn put Pitcher Clyde King of Montreal on the Dodge "faculty" to instruct the hurriers in the fine art of picking runners off base.

Rookie Tommy Glaviano and second baseman Red Schoendienst are being groomed as possible replacements for St. Louis Cardinal shortstop Marty Marion... The Chicago Cubs catching staff... with Bob Scheffing, Al Walker and either Forrest Burgess or Carl Sawatski... Dixie Walker is the only "bunter" from the Pittsburgh Pirate camp, but he's signed his contract. Johnny Hopp and Ralph Kiner reported yesterday... Rae Scarborough, who won 15 games for Washington last year, will be the opening day pitcher for Washington.

Some Prices Are Now Below OPA Levels

A comparison between the last OPA prices and present spot primary market prices shows that some commodities—such as rubber and corn in the chart above—have fallen below OPA levels. The chart compares the OPA prices with the present prices and the highest each of nine commodities reached. Some other items, notably metals like zinc, copper and lead, are still at their highest mark. Data are from the Bureau of Labor Statistics.

PRICE CHANGES FEW IN GRAINS; MARKET SLUMPS, RECOVERS

Chicago, March 4.—(P)—Price changes in grains on the Board of Trade were very small today. The market sank a bit in early dealings, wheat and corn losing as much as a cent, and then recovered just about all the lost ground in the afternoon.

Soybeans acted a little weaker than anything else, being traded about a cent under the previous close most of the day. Lard started lower and then got back its losses on buying attributed to packing house brokers.

Receipts were: wheat 10 cars, corn 180, oats 19 and soybeans 11.

Wheat closed unchanged to 1 higher, May $2.17, corn was 1-1/2 higher, May $1.31-1.32, oats were unchanged to 1 higher, May 66, rye was unchanged, May $1.30, soybeans were 1/2 lower to 1 higher, March $2.32-1/2, and lard was unchanged to 10 cents a hundred pounds higher, March $12.15-12.12.

All Day Meeting Held By Ladies Aid At Arenzville

Following the business session quilting was done by the ladies. Hostesses were Mrs. Louise Hoffmeier and Mrs. Elmer Hoffmeier.

FEARS DESTRUCTION OF INDIVIDUAL FREEDOM

Unless American patents demonstrate to their children the true benefits of individual freedom "totalitarianism, long powerful in Orient and now sweeping Europe, will eventually engulf us," Dr. George S. Benson, president of Harding College in Searcy, Ark., warned livestock men attending the annual meeting of the Producers Live Stock Marketing association in St. Louis Thursday.

Dr. Benson is shown at the rostrum in the dining room of the Jefferson hotel. Others pictured are (left to right) Manager H.D. Wright.

E. St. Louis; Sam Sorrells of Raymond, Ill., who recently retired from his post with the I.A.A. livestock marketing department, and Roy Burrus of Jacksonville, president of the 27 year old marketing cooperative.

Massey Children Attend School Here For 48 Years

By Mary Ellen Broge
Back in 1902, "when old sow, shiny and hopping bob sleds were the main sports of Jacksonville's school children," Raymond Massey of 1518 S. West street started first grade at the South Jacksonville school.

Since that time, one of 23 Massey children has been entered in the South Jacksonville school every year for the past 47 years. The whole tradition was started in 1901, when Carl Massey, Raymond's cousin, entered school.

Others who have attended the school are: Freda, Grace, Homer, Janet, Walter, Fred, Hazel, Stella, Helen, Loyd, Irene, Alford, Orval, Harry, Warren, Mardelle, Ruth, Inez, Clea, Maxene, Norma Jean, Gerald and Vernon.

All are living except Walter, son of Mr. and Mrs. E. F. Massey, and Norma Jean, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Massey. The rest of the number now reside in the nearby vicinity.

Gerald, sixth grade student and son of Fred Massey, and Vernon, first grade and son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Massey, will be eligible to attend the new South Jacksonville school, construction of which is planned for this summer.

New Building Necessity
Raymond Massey, 52-year-old chauffeur at the Jacksonville state hospital, humorously contends that the new building is a necessity because "we Masseys just about got the best of it. Why my daughter, Mardelle, was never late or tardy during her four years at the school, nor during her four years at high school."

To further prove his statement he points to the substantial increases already made at South Jacksonville. "In my time approximately 35 pupils were enrolled in a one-room school; today the Masseys attend a three-room school accommodating some 161 students," he said.

Remembers Billy Sunday
While reminiscing about his school days, Mr. Massey declared, "I've forgotten a lot, but one thing I'll always remember is the time that Billy Sunday talked at the school. His brand of Evangelism is still practiced, but it sure can't be duplicated."

Mr. Massey, son of H. C. Massey of this city, can also remember the times when "our teacher, E. B. Boston, was concerned because the older boys spit tobacco juice in the snow. But of course I was one of the younger boys."

Other South Jacksonville teachers recalled by Mr. Massey include Burley Jones, 807 N. Pine street, and Mrs. Jane Murgatroyd, 311 Vandalia Road.

45 'Notable Books Of 1948' Available At Public Library

Forty-five of the 50 "Notable Books of 1948," selected by the public libraries division of the American Library Association are now available to Jacksonville readers at the local public library.

Of the books, "The Proper Study of Mankind," a composite analysis of social conditions by Stuart Chase, will be of particular interest to local residents. Mr. Chase has lectured here several times, most recently in the 1947-48 MacMurray series.

Another of the non-fiction notable is "No Place to Hide." Written by a radiological monitor, David Bradley, the book presents an account of the experiments conducted by Joint Task Force One at Bikini in the summer of 1946. Mr. Bradley stresses the aftermath of the explosion, and the impossibility of escaping the consequences of the bomb, exploded or even partially exploded.

Among the fiction books included in the list is "William Faulkner's 'Intruder in the Dust,' in which the author once more introduces a new Southern life. Dealt with in a less sensational manner than many of Mr. Faulkner's earlier novels, the book is primarily concerned with the present-day race problem.

A modern story based on the old German legend of the man who sold his soul to the devil has been presented by Thomas Mann in his new book, "Dr. Faustus." Mr. Mann, himself a German, came to this country in the late 30's and has since become an American citizen.

One of the most important novels to emerge from World War II is "The Young Lions." Here the author, Irwin Shaw, details the psychological effect of the war on three young men from different phases of religious and social life.

Five personal memoirs, all of them accessible at the library, are listed in the "best of 48." They are: "The Gathering Storm," Churchill; "Memoirs of Cordell Hull," Hull; "On Active Service in Peace and War," Stimson; "The Stillwell Papers," Stillwell; and "The Crusade in Europe," Eisenhower.

The display shelves in the library's east reading room include a miscellaneous collection of books for Lenten reading. Miss Frances Bailey, librarian, reports that many of the newest religious books cannot be seen in the display due to the fact that they are in circulation most of the time.

GOLDEN WEDDING CELEBRATED

Mr. and Mrs. Herman Dufelmeier of Chapin celebrated their 50th anniversary on Wednesday, March 2. Herman Dufelmeier and Mary Boehs were married near Arenzville in 1899. They retired from the farm and moved to Chapin in 1931.

Those present included the Rev. and Mrs. John Detering, Mr. and Mrs. Rudolf Dufelmeier and family, Mr. and Mrs. Carl Dufelmeier and family of Concord; Mr. and Mrs. Ed Wellenkamp and family, Beardstown, Mr. and Mrs. John Dufelmeier and daughter, Bluffs; Anna of Chapin and the guests of honor.

Navy Plane Takes 263 People Aloft

San Francisco, March 4.—(AP)—A giant Mars navy flying boat tonight carried the greatest passenger load ever taken through the air.

The Caroline Mars bore 263 passengers and six crewmen. This exceeded the previous record number of 225 persons carried by the navy dirigible Akron in 1933.

Jan., Feb. Polio Cases Set Record

Washington, March 4.—(AP)—Infantile paralysis totals for January and February of this year hit new highs for those two months, the public health service said today.

"This has no significance with respect to forecasting an epidemic in the present year," the agency added, "because it's believed that the excess is due in large part to a carry-over from last year's epidemic."

Last year's 27,677 cases made in the second worst "polio" year on record—topped only by 1916 when approximately 29,000 cases were reported. The health service has been keeping exact records on the disease for only 25 years.

Police Hold Man For 'Vampire' Killings In England

London, March 4.—(AP)—Scotland Yard investigated tonight a possibility that one of the London "vampire" killer's victims, Mrs. Rosalie Henderson, was held a terrorized captive for a month before she was slain.

Arnold Burlin, her brother, said he received letters from his sister for a month after she vanished in February 1945 and the signatures appeared genuine.

The theory was that her well-to-do husband, Dr. Arthur Henderson, was killed immediately after the two were decamped away from their resort hotel at Brighton.

Investigators, however, offered little public information on their findings to keep from prejudicing the killer's case in the courts.

They admitted having a man in custody. His description, the investigators said, tallied with that of a man who was associated with at least six persons who are believed to have been slain and dissolved in a trough of acid during the past three and a half years. There were indications the killer drank the blood of at least one of his victims.
